On the subject cited above it is intimated that rules for felling of trees grown over the agriculture land in Haryana are already liberalized. Eucalyptus, Poplar, Ailanthus and Acacia Tortillis species are mostly grown under agroforestry in agricultural lands. Felling of trees in certain areas of the state is prohibited under the Punjab Land Preservation Act, 1900. However the tree species such as Eucalyptus, Poplar grown under Agroforestry in farmer fields are exempted from regulations under the PLPA, 1900. There are no transit regulations for timber in the state and no transit permit is required for transport by timber.
